Digital health pass on Mor Prom app

Cited by Thairath and The Thaiger

On 10 February 2022, Public Health Minister announced that Thai residents is able to travel in 60 countries where accept Mor Prom Digital Health Pass. The 60 countries ,including 27 EU countries and 33 non-EU countries, are registered and certified. Thailand is the second country in ASEAN to be accredited. This certificate is equal to the EU DCC system (EU Digital Covid Certificate). It allows Thai people to visit the EU counties for various purposes such as sport participation, traveling, and more. Thailand Digital Health Pass consists of vaccination and COVID-19 infection status for authorities in those countries. The information on vaccination and recovery status will remain available for 180 days, and the testing information expires in 7 days, RT-PCR or ATK which EU approved only. However, some users reported that the Mor Prom app is disrupted in some areas. They would recommend making a copy of the certificate.

“ COVID-19 Alert Level 4 ”

The Ministry of Public Health guidelines for measures to control COVID-19 after the "Covid Level 4" practiced nationwide for reducing new infection. The COVID-19 alert level 4 includes closure of at-risk places, work from home 50% to 80%, avoid gathering, avoid travel abroad, and comply with VUCA measure; vaccine, universal prevention, Covid-free settings, and antigen test.

Thailand Test and Go Update: No more Day 5 pre-paid hotel or PCR Test

Cited by The Thaiger

From the start of March, there is no more requirement of 2nd time PCR test on Day 5 after arrival. Instead of this, travelers must take ATK test on their own everywhere for safety. In addition, the covid insurance reduces from 50000 USD to 20000 USD. Hotel reservations will only be required for the 1st day as travelers wait for the results of their PCR test. Travelers won't need to book a second hotel night on the 5th day after their arrival. So, it's back to the exact requirements when Test & Go was originally launched back on November 1 last year.

The Test & Go program is one of three re-entry programs to Thailand, along with Sandbox and Alternative Quarantine programs for unvaccinated travelers.

However, Registration for a Thailand pass is compulsory for everyone , even for Thais.

Written by Pakjira Siripasid

Our mobile phones contain fantastic million apps you might not know before. As we know, app creators aim to solve the problems which are discovered in our life. For this article, I listed 5 terrific apps which I usually use in my routine life. All apps are free and have an easy-used step. I believe that my recommendation will be useful for you. Let's review and install together!

ViaBus IOS/Andriod

Waiting for your bus is a huge problem for people who live in Thailand. You can never know when your bus line is coming. ViaBus is one of the public transport applications that help you real-time track your bus line. It generates the fastest travel route to guide your decision and the number of stops. Moreover, ViaBus users will know the bus numbers of their location automatically, or the bus numbers nearest your selected destination. This app is available in more than 70 provinces now.

inDriver IOS/Adroid

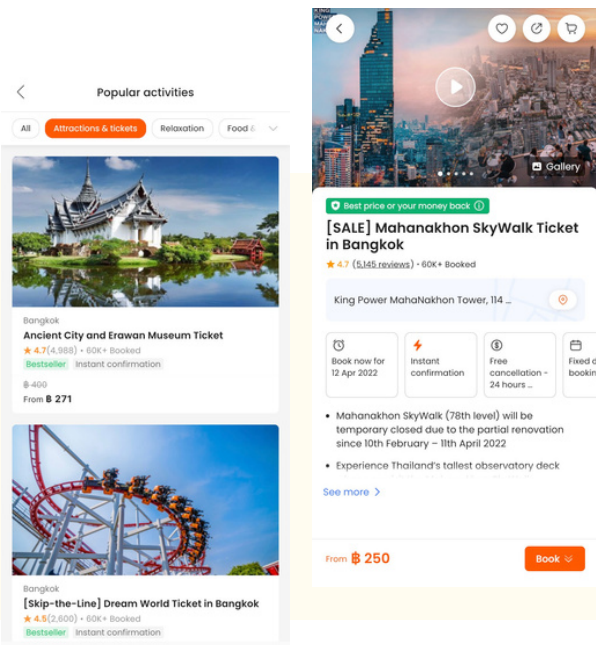

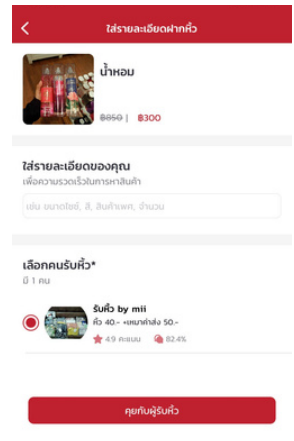

Apart from Grab and other transport apps, Indriver is a new transport app that you can offer your fare to drivers. For example, if you have a 100 baht budget to go to your destination, you just type this offer and many drivers will pick you up. It seems to depend on your luck. But as I am one of Indriver users, offering too cheap fare can be difficult to find and take a long time.

Pun Pro

Punpro is a famous promotion page and application in Thailand. It updates us with discounted products such as Adidas, Nike, Zara, and other brands in the shopping mall. The unique function is shoppers can select Punpro's staff to buy and pick up your products at the department stores. It has interesting feature that can help you to buy promotion goods even if you don't have time. The service fee starts from 110 baht including shipping fee. You can select its staff with a star rating.
